Good Hope, Jeff Win Tourney Openers

EXCITING MOMENT—Edna Mae Hoppes (left) jumps up and shouts for Wayne. Actually, she had just seen, before her teammates, Roger Osborne's game-tying basket. Mad Anthony's and Tigers Face Crucial Tilt Saturday

Dogged and razor-keen, Wayne's Mad Anthony's surprised even some of their own fans in the first round of the county double-elimination basketball tournament play Thursday night by knocking off Bloomingburg's powerful Bulldogs, 50-44, in a thrill-packed overtime game.

The Anthony's, soundly trounced twice this season by Ev Rudolph's defending tourney champs, thus win the privilege of going against the Jeffersonville Tigers, who dumped Madison Mills, 69-57 in the other tournament opener Thursday.

Jeff and Wayne will play the feature game of another three-game tournament card Saturday night. Madison Mills and Bloomingburg will play a consolation round the same night, in which one team will be eliminated.

For Bloomingburg, the only so-called Thursday came in the first game of the evening, when the packed house of avid tournament rooters watched the classy Bulldog junior high squad clout the Anthony juniors, 40-26. The victory put the Bulldogs on top of the single-elimination junior tournament heap.

Good Hope Wins In Overtime Game

Even the most avid Wayne rooter would have to admit that Bloomingburg's Bulldogs were not at the peak of their form Thursday night. But nonetheless, they could easily claim their own team was so vastly improved it didn't even look like the same squad that won only four and lost 16 during the regular season.

In fact, it could be argued it wasn't the same squad. The defense was changed. The offense was changed. And, most important, the attitude was changed—instead of battling to stay alive, the Mad Anthony had an opportunity Thursday to battle for victory over one of the toughest teams in the area.

Teamwork showed itself most vividly on Wayne's offense, where Bloomingburg concentrated to stop the scoring talents of Jay Bonecutter. Bonecutter was so well guarded he didn't score a single point—but three other boys stepped into the breach and each ran up scores in double figures.

Rescuer Finds Boy on Ledge To Be Dead

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—An expert mountain climber finally got down to a ledge where a boy lay by a waterfall, grotesquely twisted and still.

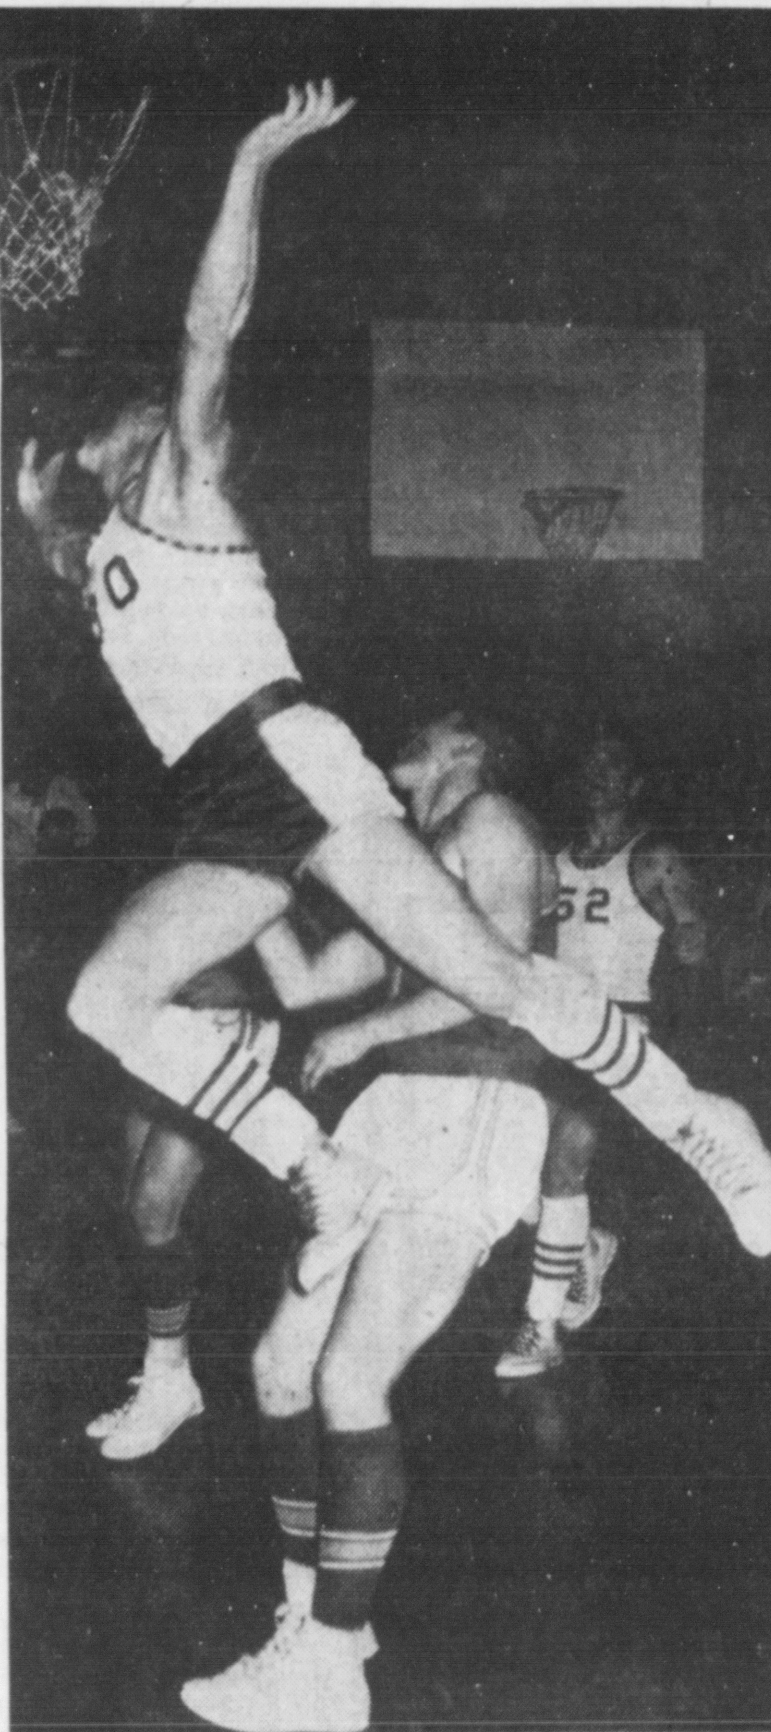

"Negative," the climber yelled to the men 300 feet above. They knew then that the crumbly cliff had defeated them. Young Donald Burns was dead.

The 13-year-old eighth grader from nearby Colton had been walking along the top of the cliff on a towering Mt. San Geronimo Wednesday. He and a schoolmate, part of a hiking party, had climbed from a snowy canyon to look from the top of a falls that tumbles 700 feet down in two steps.

Donald slipped on a path, went over the side. He landed on a small ledge about 100 feet down, but the water pushed him off and he fell another 200 feet to the ledge that forms a step in the middle of the waterfall.

The boy stayed there in falling snow that evening, crying out and waving intermittently. Another wave told would-be rescuers he was still alive Thursday morning.

But, because of a lack of rope and solid footing, nobody could get to him until John Matthews of the Sierra Madre search and rescue team made it down to the ledge on a rope.

BUT TO NO AVAIL—Bloomingburg's Bob Riley swoops in towards the basket and tries to tip the ball in for points against Wayne. He failed and so did the team. At rear is teammate Jim Hidy. (Record Herald photo)

Probe Chief Offers To Help FBI Check 'Fix' in FCC Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Harris (D-Ark) today promised full cooperation with an FBI probe of allegations that Communications Commissioner Richard C. Mack received "thousands of dollars" in a Miami television case.

Harris said that the investigating subcommittee he heads will call Mack to testify "very soon" on the charges made by the group's ousted counsel, Bernard Schwartz.

Testifying under oath, Schwartz said Mack has acknowledged accepting several thousand dollars from a lawyer Schwartz said was active in getting a television license for a firm rated by an FCC examiner as the least qualified of four applicants. He said Mack described the money as loans.

No 'Get-Rich-Quick' Chance In Selling Land for Freeway

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Can you get rich quick by selling your farm land to the Ohio Department of Highways for freeways?

The department says emphatically, "no." You'll get what the department considers a fair price for the type of land you sell.

If it's swampland and of not much use to you or anyone else, the price will be low. If it's good, rich farmland, the price will be higher.

Some recent large settlements made by the department for land needed for the Cincinnati to Cincinnati Freeway (Ohio 1) have raised eyebrows. But the department says that when all details of the transactions are made known, prices are fair, not too high, not too low.

The department appeared to pay $87,677 for 54.33 acres of land needed in the extreme northwest corner of Wayne County for Ohio 1. Sounds like a lot of money for that much land.

Most of the land was purchased at $160 an acre, the rest at $210 or $240 an acre, bringing total cost for the land to more than $17,000. But, in addition, the department paid $70,000 as damages to the farm.

The 1,648-acre farm is owned by Charles B. Bolton, Cleveland real estate executive, but negotiations were with the Cleveland Trust Co. as trustee.

Appraisers hired by the department set a $662,000 valuation on the farm which has 15 sets of farm buildings. The trustees felt the valuation should be higher.

The freeway will cross the farm diagonally, and relocation of county road 21 will further damage the farm, department spokesmen say.

Atty. James L. Stegmeier, right-of-way administrator for the task force which is building interstate freeways, said the $70,000 damage figure was agreed to after negotiations. The figure could have been higher and the case gone to court.

He said he feels the price paid for the Bolton property was fair, considering the amount of damage done to the remainder of the farm. Value of the farm will be decreased, he said, because the freeway will cut it in two.

The department paid $100 an acre for some freeway land north of the Bolton farm. The reason the price was so low, Stegmeier said, was because it was swampland.

Prices being paid for land are considerably under preliminary estimates of land costs. The estimate (Please turn to page two)

Union Stockyards Here Expands with Purchase Of Three More Yards

Purchase of two stockyards in Hillsboro and one in Washington C. H. were announced today as part of an expansion program of the Washington C. H. Union Stockyards that is expected to develop a livestock business amounting to around $15,000,000 this year.

The first step in the expansion was the purchase of the Fayette Stockyards here from John O'Conner last month. The second was the purchase of the Hillsboro Livestock Co. and the Long-West Stockyards at Hillsboro this week.

The Fayette Stockyards, with a capacity of around 300 hogs (only hogs were handled), joins the Union Stockyards on Rose Ave. on the east.

William Mace, Union general manager, said the Fayette yards and facilities will be integrated with those of the Union gradually.

THE UNION expects to handle around 1,000 to 1,500 hogs and 300 cattle a week and 15,000 to 20,000 sheep and lambs a year at the two Hillsboro stockyards, this year, Mace said. This would be about twice as many as have been handled there, he noted.

The two stockyards at Hillsboro, and their facilities, are to be revamped, Mace said, so they can be operated as a single unit. The two are side by side on B & O Railroad on W. Main St.

Final settlement for the purchase will be made Feb. 21 and the first market day under the new Union management will be Feb. 24.

Under the Union management, Mace said, there will be a daily hog market at the combined yards in Hillsboro with an auction of cattle, hogs and sheep every Saturday.

THE UNION Stockyards here, which was founded May 31, 1931, is an independent livestock marketing organization, one of the largest of its kind in Ohio.

Last year it handled 141,000 hogs,

32,000 cattle and 22,000 sheep and lambs for a dollar volume of business that topped $11,000,000.

During the last five years, Mace said, the volume of all livestock handled by the Union Stockyards here more than doubled. He noted that in January alone, cattle and hogs that went through the yards had a value of more than $1,200,000.

The incorporation of the Fayette Stockyards and the two stockyards in Hillsboro into the Union Stockyards operations will increase the volume of the company by an estimated 35 to 40 per cent.

The combined stockyards in Hillsboro will be operated after Feb. 21 as the Union Stockyards Co., Hillsboro Branch. Headquarters of the company will be in Washington C. H.

The Hillsboro Livestock Co. was organized by James M. Caldwell, and opened just a month before the Union Stockyards here. Caldwell, who was sales director of the firm when it opened, also organized several other similar livestock companies in different part of the state.

No Warmup Sighted For Chilly Florida

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Weather Bureau said today no warmup from the chilly weather which has plagued the Southland is indicated.

Freezing weather was reported in sections of Florida, which has been hit by unseasonable cold this winter along with record snowfalls in some areas. Heaviest was 3 inches at Tallahassee, breaking the old record of two inches set in 1886.

Temperatures in the middle and upper 20s were reported in northern Florida and in the low and middle 30s in many other areas. Miami's 42 today compared with 56 Thursday morning.

Delivery Due By 1960 for Polaris Craft

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy today awarded contracts for three atomic-powered submarines to fire Polaris guided missiles. Two will be built by Electric Boat Division at Groton, Conn., and a third at the Mare Island, Calif., Naval Shipyard.

The first of the three Polaris submarines probably will be completed by Electric Boat, a division of General Dynamics Corp.

The first deliveries of the new missile firing submarines are expected in 1960, to coincide with the time when the ballistic missiles are expected to be ready for quantity production.

It has been estimated the first boat will cost between 105 and 110 million dollars, with the cost of the next two dropping to between 85 and 90 million dollars.

A supplemental appropriation bill passed by Congress this year carries $296 million for starting the submarines. The Navy has asked that the initial program be expanded to a total of nine craft.

THE NAVY announcement said: "These two yards were selected because, in the Navy's judgment, these assignments will permit the earliest possible completion dates."

Rear Adm. W. F. Raborn, director of special projects in the Navy Bureau of Ordnance, said the submarines "are designed specifically for carrying and launching the Polaris missile."

14 Ohio Cities Invited To See Bell Checkup

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Utilities Commission has invited 14 cities that appeared in the last Ohio Bell Telephone Co. rate case to see for themselves how it checks that firm's revenues and expenses.

A team of commission accountants will begin Monday to check company records in Cleveland, one step in the check, before it hears Ohio Bell's request for a 28-million-dollar annual rate increase.

The commission's chief accountant, Edward E. Knaub, sent out the invitations to city attorneys in Toledo, Dayton, Columbus, Canton, Cleveland, Youngstown, Lancaster, Struthers, Akron, Parma, Gahanna, Springfield, Piqua and Maple Heights.

Commission engineers now are analyzing the inventory submitted by Ohio Bell to determine the scope of the engineering investigation the commission will make. Results of the accounting and engineering investigations are put together into a secretary's report which shows, among other things, the company's valuation in the eyes of commission staff members.

A group of city attorneys protesting the proposed rate increase was to have met with the commission today to see whether the commission could help pay for special studies of Ohio Bell's valuation. The meeting was postponed until next Friday morning at the request of the Columbus utilities director, Fred Pickens, who said all of the city attorneys could not get to Columbus today.

1 More Motor on Rocket And U.S. Can Reach Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Put one more rocket motor on the Jupiter-C missile that launched the American satellite and you could reach the moon.

Scientists who designed Explorer I disclosed this Thursday at a news conference called to report on the satellite's progress through the heavens.

California Institute of Technology's jet propulsion laboratory has formally asked Defense Department permission to try to circle the moon with some future satellite.

There is no thought at the moment, scientists said, of trying this with Explorer II, the second U. S. satellite now being rushed to completion at the jet lab.

To reach the moon, a fifth rocket stage would be added to the four stages of the Jupiter-C. This stage, however, would be added to the nose of the missile, not the base.

Dr. Henry Richter and other scientists at the news conference said Explorer I is performing as they expected it would. Radioed information indicates that a human could live in a satellite. "Room temperature" is being maintained inside the satellite and measuring devices indicate no great peril from cosmic rays or small meteorites in space.

A radio receiver, which Explorer I does not have, is being installed in Explorer II.

"By means of this receiver we can tell Explorer II when to broadcast to us," Richter said. "A tape recorder in the satellite will save information gathered while the satellite is farthest away from earth and send it to us, on command, when the satellite is nearest the earth."

Because the radio will not be transmitting all the time, its batteries will last longer.

Some Urging Secrecy about U. S. Economy

Various Critics Rap Public Discussion of Current Recession

By FAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — President Eisenhower's frank admission that the number of jobless is distressing—and may grow before times get better — could clear the air.

His view that the turn of the tide should come in a month or so is aimed at calming undue fears. But even this may find disapproval among some who think that business, like diplomacy, fares best in the aura of secrecy.

Perhaps you have been told by friends that business would get better if everyone stopped talking about it.

Such critics of public discussion hold that the best way to treat the recession is to ignore it — that if you never mention it somehow it will just go away.

Their argument usually is based on the belief that Americans are prone to hysteria, that confidence can be rebuilt by mentioning only the favorable aspects of business and pretending the unfavorable ones don't exist.

Many businessmen, however, seem to apply a double standard to this.

On one hand, when talking to the salesmen who supply them, they are quite frank in saying why they aren't ordering ahead, why they are living off stocks on hand, why they are cancelling plans to build or otherwise expand until general conditions are better.

On the other hand, some are likely to hold that this state of affairs should be withheld from the knowledge of their own customers.

The charge of hysteria often is brought against the American public. It is pointed out that war scare buying at the outset of the Korean conflict was a prime cause of price inflation — with a hangover that still throbs intermittently in the nation's temples.

Mostly, however, the public has shown less hysteria than those who bring the charge. The public almost always has been the last to believe that a recession is under way. Business leaders have foreseen it—and acted accordingly—long before the consumer has changed his ways.

With few exceptions, consumers stop buying only when their incomes are cut or threatened, either by shorter work weeks or by layoffs.

Talking up good times by pretending they are endless, by refusing to face facts when a non-alarming breather occurs, by urging others to spurge when you yourself are doing just the opposite—well, it's never worked yet.

Just as bad is exaggerating any moderate turn down in production and employment.

The President says flatly that conditions are unpleasant now—but that he sees small chance of their becoming disastrous.

Such frankness might be just what the doctor ordered.

Youth Club Activities

Wilson Country Sisters 4-H Club's regular meeting was called to order with 26 members repeating the 4-H Pledge.

Secretary Donna Dill called the roll and read the minutes. The treasurer's report was given by Julie Rankin.

Rosemary Caplinger, health leader, suggested that the club have a poster making contest with a health theme. It was decided the contest should include all of Wilson School and that the winning posters would be displayed at a future PTO meeting. Rules will be set up by the health leader and the teachers of Wilson School.

A special 4-H meeting was held last Saturday, when the girls worked on their projects.

Plans for a tour of the Record-Herald March 8 were completed. A pot luck lunch will follow at the Wilson School building.

While refreshments were being prepared by Ruth McFadden and Lynda Stephenson at the recent meeting, Ellen Fryer and Patsy Johnson led the group in several songs.

Mrs. Dill and Mrs. Rankin are advisors to the Country Sisters. The junior leaders are Joyce Lutz, and Lynda and Sue Stephenson.

"Temperature changes sometimes cause the instrument to separate at the joints," he said. "I smear glue on and stick it back together. It doesn't stick very good but at least it plays."

Some U. S. Mining Interests Really Dig Treasury Dollars

Editor's Note: Following is the third in a series of articles in which a member of the Senate Finance Committee, Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, tells why the U. S. Treasury, with so much coming in, always is broke.

By DEANE and DAVID HELLER
Central Press Correspondents
WASHINGTON — On June 27, 1955, United States Senator John J. Williams rose to speak to a nearly empty chamber on a dull, technical-sounding bill.

"This," he opined seriously, "represents one of the boldest raids on the federal treasury that has been proposed in recent years."

It was S. 922, favorably reported to the Senate by unanimous vote of the interior committee. In the name of national defense, it requested the government to buy asbestos, beryl, manganese, mica, tungsten and chrome at prices well over double the domestic or world market prices! Furthermore, there was no limit on the amount the government would be required to purchase. "To make matters worse," Senator Williams declared, "the bill carried an escalator clause providing that these prices can be raised in the future, but under no circumstances can they be lowered."

The Interior Committee had unanimously endorsed the bill without any public hearings and without asking the opinion of any government agency concerned. Why, then, this fantastic bill providing that the government must pay twice what anybody else who wanted these metals must pay?

"The magic words were 'national defense,'" said Senator Williams. "The proponents of the bill felt they could get away with it, by justifying it as a national defense need."

The bill was on the Unanimous Consent calendar, where it was expected to sail through without opposition. But Senator Williams took the trouble to discuss the seemingly dull, unimportant-sounding bill with Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization. Was it really necessary?

No, it wasn't, Dr. Flemming replied, stating that the bill could not be justified in the name of national defense. Supplies of those metals in the national stockpile were more than ample, he declared.

The defense agencies were dead set against the give-away, which, Dr. Flemming estimated, would cost the government over its 12-year life no less than $767,397,000—more than three-quarters of a billion dollars!

Senator Williams objected to the bill, sent a copy of Dr. Flemming's letter to every member of the Senate, and it was withdrawn.

However, that didn't end the matter, the senator reported. If the proponents of the great give-away couldn't get the giant $767 million jackpot, they could try again. They did—for $150 million, thinking that nobody could object to so trifling a sum. Again Senator Williams fought the bill. Thirty members of the Senate voted with him, but it passed Congress easily. President Eisenhower vetoed it, stating that the defense needs which the bill purported to satisfy simply did not exist.

Still the bill's backers kept trying. They tacked a rider onto an appropriation bill which the President couldn't veto, Senator Williams said. As a result, the government is now buying tungsten at $60 a ton, and immediately reselling it in the domestic market at half that price.

"The government has so much tungsten it can't possibly use that which it is forced by law to buy," the senator says. "If the government didn't sell its tungsten at half price, it would have to keep all of it and take a total loss."

This is typical of the way the government is forced to pay through the nose for many, many metals, Senator Williams says. "Under the guise of national defense, the government stockpile program has become a price support program for many metals, nearly all in ample or overabundant supply."

"This waste adds enormously to the federal budget," he says. "Nobody knows exactly how much, but certainly it represents a staggering sum."

Ohio Underground Water Supply Eyed

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio's underground water levels this year in some places may equal or exceed the average for a five-year base period, the state Division of Water says. The base period is 1949-1953. The levels are now higher than at this time last year but still below the average levels for the base period.

"In general the level for January is more favorable than at any time since 1952," state hydrologist Paul Kaser reported in his monthly water summary.

"Adequate rainfall and the water now frozen in the soil and on the surface, if released, should produce a rising trend next month," he says.

Another View On Public School Question

The educational hysteria which seems to have been sweeping across our nation within the past year or more, has some troublesome features.

The claim by many people that public schools are not giving the taxpayers their money's worth in what they produce, seems to be growing.

At the same time there is a feeling that the need for more productive results, especially in fundamentals, has been seized upon by too many educators as a chance to advance the theory that everything will be better if more money and plenty of it, is made available to the schools. There appears to be little thought given to making stronger efforts to use the funds already available with more economy and efficiency. Undoubtedly there are extra-curricular and expensive school activities which could be cut without penalizing real education.

One criticism being advanced now is that many people, while overstressing the educational needs of students with low (and even subnormal) intelligence ratings have caused some school systems to be geared down to the level of young people who have neither the desire or the ability to absorb much learning. It is not to be suggested that they be deprived of schooling opportunities but their interests, it is said, should not take precedence over those of more gifted children, or at least those who try to make best use of their intellectual equipment.

Claude M. Fuess, former headmaster of Phillips Academy, has written a penetrating article on the ills of U. S. education in The Saturday Review. He expresses a deep concern over the fact that as time goes on less and less use is being made of our expanding educational resources. Not only are public schools empty during the long summer months, he observes, but the number of holidays has been so increased of late that boys and girls, like their parents, are sometimes at a loss how to spend their spare time. He declares:

"Let us face the truth. Most school teachers no more need 13 weeks of summer vacation than doctors or bankers or librarians. If any boys and girls are sincerely eager to learn and move along faster, why not let them receive the instruction for which they hunger? If vacations were shorter and teachers were paid accordingly, the profession would be for many of them more attractive, and thousands of ambitious adolescents would welcome the opportunity for acceleration.

"This is not just an 'egghead pipe-dream.' Some independent schools which have undertaken such an experiment have been well satisfied with the results. A summer session of this type at Phillips Academy has been in operation for 20 years, enabling pupils to cover an entire year's work in a subject like French or to make up a previous failure in chemistry or English. . . ."

There are said to be numerous advantages of running a summer school for advanced students. Education at facilities would be used far more efficiently than they are at present, which should certainly appeal to taxpayers. But more important, pupils able to move ahead rapidly would be given the opportunity, and under advantageous conditions. Heretofore, educators have been content to use the summer months for coaching boys and girls who, for one reason or another, have fallen behind their classmates. It would seem that the same time could be devoted, and with greater purpose, to the advancement of youngsters who could move along faster under such opportunity.

Bullfighting Interest Wanes

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Bullfighting is at a low ebb in Mexico. Tourists are about the only ones who get very excited about what's going on in the bullrings nowadays.

Experts blame the situation mainly on lack of real talent among the matadors, and the poor quality of the bulls themselves.

But there are other factors: Mexico has some top-notch prizefighters now who receive the adulation once reserved for matadors; it has baseball, soccer, American football, jai lai and other sports.

Back in the 1920s bullfighting was the major sport. It got so bad the government banned bullfight by employees while on the job.

But the great Rodolfo Gaona retired, and interest sagged.

With the master gone, bullfighting just wasn't the same. A youngster named Armillita came along and fans caught fire again. But during his period of popularity prizefighting gained in favor, football became amateur sport, and there were more and more movies to lure the scarce pesos away from the bullring.

The great Manolete, a Spaniard, brought bullfighting back to its almost fanatic enthusiasm in the 1940s. He fought often in Mexico, where he was paid as much as 150,000 pesos—$12,000—for a few hours of work. But he was gored and died in Spain.

Carlos Arruza was the next spark. He was a Mexican, and a great matador. He ranked, in the minds of many, with Manolete. His peak overlapped Manolete and Luis Miguel Dominguez in world popularity. But Mexico was now baseball mad, and American style football was introduced, packing the stadiums. Then Arruza retired and Dominguez was banned from Mexico for insulting officials after a controversial fight in the plaza.

There are few outstanding matadors today. The Plaza Mexico, largest bullring in the world, has been closed for over a year by strike. Rings in smaller cities have operated only spasmodically. Sometimes they don't have fights once a month.

So until another Gaona, Manolete or Arruza comes along, the fans probably will settle for a hot baseball game, a prize fight, an international soccer match. But once a new bullring idol appears, watch them flock back to the arena!

The Waste of Talent

Some men must devote themselves to the search for the truth not only because their inner nature requires it but because their education and training have forced upon them this vocation.

They are often dissatisfied and discontented men. They search the heavens; they pursue mathematical formulae; they investigate the entrails of animals; they crawl along the bottom of the sea they climb the highest mountains and go to the South Pole; they argue in symbols and write on blackboards.

Other men regard them as impractical; yet all that we know comes from such searchers for the truth.

There is no use requiring research scientists to weigh and measure and supervise, for theirs is the realm of thought, and if thinking sometimes makes them seem to be impractical, all the ways that practical men have for making money and producing their wares originated with such persons as my colleague, Mr. Pegler, would call a double-dome.

For the origin of all application is thought, and thought leads to theory. Today, to avoid classifying anyone as a theorist and having a congressman from Brooklyn ask why the government employs a lot of theorists, they are called basic scientists.

They thought up the atom bomb the hydrogen bomb, the rocket and about everything else that is even too practical to think about kindly.

Reading the numerous volumes of the hearings of the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee, I find that the very practical Donald Douglas Sr., who makes all those DC airplanes and many other tremendous things, appreciates the value of the basic scientist.

"This is precisely why, in private industry, basic and applied research is usually segregated for freedom of action in a staff capacity rather than a line capacity."

Basic research is of tremendous importance and the Russians pay much attention to it as the Germans always have. However, some people in this country often wonder whether it is worth the candle. They cannot understand why anyone should be paid for tinkering about in a laboratory or writing in Greek on a blackboard. Such people seem not to know that if there were no ecologists or paleontologists, there would be no adequate discovery of oil wells, just to pick up one subject.

The ignorant often extol ignorance and speak of the learned as intellectual snobs, particularly because some of the more learned find it trying to listen to the inaccuracies of those who suffer from a little knowledge which these days will get you nowhere in a technical field.

On this subject, Donald Douglas Sr., has some thoroughly sound ideas:

"I think there should be an independent commission on pure research. When you get to applied research, I think that the using services have got to control that."

I find the study of the hearings of this committee most exciting and valuable. The news, of course, was summarized in the press when the hearings occurred, but there are details which only direct quotations can produce adequately for the American people and as I come across them in the hearings, I shall recount them to you.

When these people are pulled off to monitor and to try to be on the road as engineers and have a goal and not be rather widespread in their thinking, it is a waste of their talents."

Further, Johnson commented: "It is my belief that many fine American scientists have found themselves in an untenable position when charged with the responsibility of administering weapons system developments. A scientist abhors a time schedule as much as an engineer abhors a contract for something which he has not the means of delivering."

Diet and Health

Do Not Let Neurosis Impair Your Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

A FEW simple adjustments in your daily lives probably could make most of you a lot healthier than you are now. Many of you undoubtedly are performing daily tasks which you do not have to do and which you unconsciously resent.

Definite Connection

We know there is a definite connection between your mental attitudes and your physical well-being. That's what keeps psychiatrists' offices so well filled.

Since most psychiatrists are already pretty busy, maybe you can try a bit of self-analysis to help improve your mental and physical health. It's worth an attempt, anyway.

The object of this self-analysis, of course, is to discover your neurotic trends. Once you discover them, you have to recognize them as such and take action to eliminate them.

Make Notes

The first thing to do is to write down everything you do throughout the day, every day for a week. Make notes as you go along and then sit down in the evening and summarize the day's activities.

At the end of the week, analyze your daily actions. Don't try to justify everything you have done. Look at your actions just as your neighbor would look at them. The results, and only the results, should be the judge of whether they are worthwhile.

I think you will find that the results of some of the things you do each day actually make you unhappy or resentful. Yet you compel yourself to do them.

Useless Chore

Perhaps you attack one virtually useless chore to avoid responsibility for another one of infinitely more value. Maybe you have an unconscious desire for sympathy or for perfection.

Neurotic trends not only disturb you, but your entire family as well. Get rid of them.

If your activities do not give you a feeling of accomplishment, of real satisfaction, chances are they aren't worth the effort.

Review Your Life

Maybe you will be able to understand why you do them by looking back over your entire life.

Sit down and write a fairly complete autobiography. Spend half an hour or so a day on it. When you have finished, see if you can establish the cause of some of your useless actions.

Then, adjust your daily routine so that everything you do has a purpose and really accomplishes something.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

D. F.: I have had a severe cut which has failed to close. Can you help me?

Answer: Many times there are dead spaces which are too great to permit healing in deep cuts. This type of cut usually has to be sutured.

Foreign substances in the wound or decreased circulation to the part of the body where the wound occurs may also be the cause of delayed healing. Certain chronic diseases, too, may produce this condition.

New Synthetic Rubber Is Hailed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A synthetic rubber called Coral may free the United States from dependence on overseas suppliers of natural rubber and end U. D. stockpiling $20 million in natural rubber yearly.

The Army reports it has been testing the product, developed by Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. It said tests show the synthetic rubber has the same essential properties as natural rubber and, under low temperature, stands stress better than natural rubber.

The government report, issued by the Commerce Department, is similar to statement made by Firestone President Harvey S. Firestone Jr. last September.

People . . . Places . . . and Things

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

It is always a pleasure to hear of bird feeding stations during the winter months. There are several of them in Washington C. H. and others in the county.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Duff, 505 N. North St., have maintained a feeding station in their back yard for many years. Recently some 40 or 50 doves have been their guests along with six pairs of red birds, or cardinals, several blue jays, plenty of pigeons, English sparrows and starlings. A few other kinds of birds are not regular guests.

Squirrels have long since found they can have plenty to eat at the Duff station and each day they consume three ears of corn.

Auburn says the starlings are real friends of man, although their roosting habits about buildings are none too good. He cites an instance in which starlings in two days completely eradicated worms which were destroying a lawn. In another instance, he said, the starlings spent a week on four acres of pasture where insects were killing the grass; the grass started anew later.

Mr. and Mrs. Billie Wilson have a bird (and squirrel) feeding station at their home, 215 McKinley Ave., and Mrs. Wilson's father, Charles Rannels, has a similar station at his premises on Fairview Ave. immediately back of the Wilson home. He built both feeding houses.

At the Wilson feeding station where cracked corn, etc. are kept in the feeder, one robin has been appearing daily for 10 days or more. Two pairs of cardinals also are among the birds.

Two flickers (or yellow hammers), one downy woodpecker, several blue jays, starlings, sparrows and some pigeons are the guest list, but no doves have appeared recently.

Three squirrels feed regularly on ear corn and are so tame they will accept a bread crust from Mrs. Wilson's hands. The birds also have learned they are not molested and rarely take wing when a member of the family goes near them.

These feeding stations (and there should be many more of them) do much toward helping the birds survive the severe weather of the winter.

TOUR COMING TO MURAL

Announcement has been made by Bixler Tours of Hiram that Washington C. H. will be a stop-over place for one of the Bixler tours about March 10. The stop will be made so the tourists may see the Archibald M. Willard murals in the Court House here.

It will be the second of the tours to visit Washington C. H. to see the notable murals, which were painted by the artist who created the "Spirit of 76" and other famous patriotic paintings.

Incidentally during the past year many people from a wide radius have come here to see the murals.

RED-TAILED HAWKS

Last week while driving up the Rock Bridge Rd. from Rock Mills, my wife and I saw a pair of red-tailed hawks more familiarly known as chicken hawks, or hen hawks. They flew across the road and came to rest in a large, white-limbed sycamore tree on the west side of the stream.

Two or three times they took wing and went farther up stream as we halted to get a better look at them.

Comparatively few of these big hawks, which are some 20 inches tall and have a wing spread of five feet or more, are left in this community. The dense growth of trees along Paint Creek seems to be one of the favorite haunts of those remaining.

Before the forests fell before the woodsman's ax and saw, these big birds of prey were abundant. For a long, long time they preyed upon farmers' chickens, even carrying off hens if necessary to satisfy their ravenous appetites. That is why they were commonly called hen hawks.

As the forests were cleared out and guns became more plentiful, hawks were made upon the great number of hawks. Now they are becoming rare.

4 Schools Slated For 'Problem' Kids

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner and Gov. Averell Harriman have agreed on using four existing schools to accommodate problem children in an effort to cut crime in the city's schools.

Harriman also said he is prepared to draw up a supplemental budget providing further state aid, with an eye toward buying or leasing facilities facilities for no indication where it had been wintering.

Plans were made to widen Route 35 east from the city to Townsley farm two miles south-east, or at end of brick paving.

A second state highway improvement scheduled for early spring was elimination of a dangerous curve on Route 70 about 2 1/2 miles northwest of Jeffersonville.

Mike Liscandro caught two large bass in Sugar Creek, at the Ford Rd. bridge, first catch of the season.

Rebels were shelling city of Madrid, Spain, as civil war in that country continued.

J. W. Anderson was enlarging and modernizing his White Tile Meat Market in Memorial Hall building.

Fayette County jury sitting in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court, where the county commissioners were defendant in heavy damage suit, returned a finding for the commissioners. Two other Fayette County juries in identical cases had returned similar findings.

The city now has five special schools. The new "specials" would be opened within a month in old buildings now vacant or only partially used, Wagner said. Two other special schools are planned for use next September.

"For those who were born in the deepest depths of poverty; reared in the backwoods; clothed in homespun; whose food was of the coarsest fare, who with but few books and fewer opportunities for an education, carved out great destinies," Miss Barker said.

Miss Barker closed by saying "they proved themselves superior to their environments and made their obstacles by stepping stones to higher things. We are indeed thankful for these Log Cabin presidents, leaders in our past and men of yesterday, for their God like thoughts and their heroic achievements."

During the social hour dainty refreshments were served.

The arts seemed to have become a dominant factor in WHS education, with music, dramatics and speech all pushing to the forefront and demanding to be recognized.

In dramatics, the Thespians last week presented one of the best productions ever to be viewed by an audience in the WHS auditorium. The story of a young doctor's struggle to establish himself and gain the trust of his fellow citizens provided a highly entertaining format for the play.

The juniors, who have just started work on their class play which will be presented March 7, will be hard-pressed to match the performance given by the local Thespian group. However, the cast is piling into the work with vigor, and the end result will probably be another fine theatrical performance for the people of Washington C. H.

OUR VOCAL MUSIC department presented another concert, this one for the students at New Holland High School this afternoon. The program was presented by three groups: the Mixed Ensemble, the Male Glee Club and the Girls Ensemble. The Mixed Ensemble sang "The Woodchuck Song," "Winter Wonderland," "Ezekiel Saw De Wheel," "Rock-a My Soul," "When The Saints Go Marching In," and "My Man's Gone Now." There were solos from Winter Wonderland" by Sandy Mickle and Buddy Lynch, from "Ezekiel Saw De Wheel" by Aaron Foster from "When The Saints Go Marching In" by Doug Rider and "My Man's Gone Now" by Sylvia Lee.

The Male Glee Club presented: "Benedictus," "To Music," "Aure Le," "Sympathy" and "The Riff Song." Featured was a duet "Sympathy" by Barbara Rose and Dick Willis.

The Girl's Ensemble sang, "What's the Use of Wondering," "Get Out the Paint Brush," and "I'm Gonna Wash that Man Right Out of My Hair."

Grover Baber, director of vocal music, sang two solos, "Without A Song" and "If I Loved You."

At the conclusion of the scheduled program, the appreciative audience's sustained applause was answered by the performance of "A Tribute To Romberg" by the entire group. There was a reception after the program under the direction of Julia Glasco, the president of the New Holland Choir and Martha Wagner, music director.

THE TOP FIVE tunes of the week at WHS are: (1) "Get A Job," (2) "The Stroll," (3) 26 "Miles" (4) "She's Neat" and (5) "Oh Julie." Coming up - "I'll Come Running Back to You."

SPONTANEOUS interest was the cause of the formation of two quartets at WHS. The groups consist of Larry Milstead, Doug Rider, Kenny Evans and Roney Foster and John Eleessor, Jerry Crissinger, Max Milstead and Buddy Lynch. The two groups use their own arrangements of already popular songs and hope to perform for many school activities in the near future.

COLLEGE INFORMATION - This week we would like to discuss college entrance requirements.

Not all Ohio Colleges have precisely the same entrance requirements. Some require only a certificate of graduation from an accredited high school. This is particularly true of state tax-supported institutions that are required by law to accept any graduate of a first-grade Ohio high school. These state institutions are not obliged, however, to retain students who fail to do satisfactory work on the college level.

Other colleges have certain minimum admission requirements in specific subjects. Many others give serious consideration to scholastic standing in the high school graduation class, to scores on scholastic aptitude tests and to the personality and character of the applicant.

In planning your high school course it is desirable, therefore, to determine as early as possible the college which you hope to attend. Secure from the admissions officer of that college an exact statement of the entrance requirements and, with the help of your guidance counselor or principal, arrange your high school course to meet those entrance requirements.

If you have not decided upon your choice of a college and yet want to be adequately prepared for admission, you should include the following studies in your high school course: English - 3 or 4 years; mathematics - 2 or 3; foreign languages - 2, 3 or 4; history and other social studies - 2; and laboratory sciences - 1 or 2. You should aim for as high marks as you can attain and at the same time participate in some extra-curricular activities. For admission many colleges expect you to rank in at least the upper two thirds of your class, preferably in the upper half.

It should be remembered, however, that for admission to particular colleges in certain universities there may be additional specific requirements. For admission to most engineering colleges a student must present: English - 3 years, mathematics - 3 or 4, chemistry and physics. Some require 2 years of a foreign language.

Some of the Ohio Colleges do not require a specific pattern of high school subjects for admission. They select their students upon the basis of academic record, intelligence and character. They insist upon evidence of adequate preparation and capacity to do serious intellectual work. Preference is usually given to students who present the most acceptable credits in the subjects recommended.

SO MANY PEOPLE have commented on the program that the Ohio State University Men's Club presented Wednesday in the auditorium, and have wanted to know more about the organization, that we asked Mr. Baber, now a teacher here and last year president of the group, if he would give us a history and explanation of the organization.

He told us that the club was organized in 1873 and is one of the oldest college singing groups in the nation. In the days of adjudicated competition among college glee clubs it proved itself to be one of the finest by taking third place among groups from such universities as Harvard, Yale and Princeton.

Boasting a history as old as the university itself, the club is naturally a part of the tradition of Ohio State, but it is through its own excellence that the Men's Glee Club maintains recognition among the top musical organizations of the state.

This popularity is due largely to the ability of the club to adapt the content of its programs to the special interests of its diverse audiences. In so doing, Professor Staiger utilizes a repertoire that ranges from Gregorian Chants to numbers from current Broadway musicals.

The club has been the one group selected for many years to appear before the largest gathering of pastors in the world, the Ohio Pastor's Convention. And at the same time its entertainment appeal is such that it was the first Glee Club selected to appear as half-time entertainment on the nation-wide telecasts of the 1954-55 basketball games. The club also appeared nationally on TV coverage of many OSU athletic events.

Among the club's outstanding appearances for the past year is its performance with the Columbus Symphony Orchestra with Jah Pearce, celebrated Metropolitan Opera tenor. The club's 1957 eastern tour included an appearance on the nationally-televised Ed Sullivan Show and a recording session with RCA Victor in Camden, N. J.

The club's shield, which is found on the men's personal jackets, presents the following detail: the squire's helmet - service to the Ohio State University; mantle and doubling - blood red for devotion, blue for sincerity; dexter chief - sign for men's music in the school's colors; and finally the sinister base which signifies the OSU Glee Club. Thus, the club, dressed in its distinctive blue jackets, makes a fine appearance with its several innovations for male singing groups.

In the spring of 1957, the president of last year's glee club was elected undergraduate president of the Intercollegiate Musical Council for the coming year. Glee clubs from all over the country are represented in this organization.

THE SENIOR Y-TEENS of WHS met Thursday in the auditorium. The meeting was opened with an interpretation of the Lord's Prayer followed by the girls' recitation of the Lord's Prayer. Linda Layman secretary, called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting. The treasurer, Linda Halliday, reported that the sweat shirt sale was a success. Miss Marjorie Evans, club advisor, asked the club to vote on whether they wanted to keep the concession stand at the football field or turn it over to the Boosters Club. The girls then commented on why they wanted to keep it. It has not yet been decided whether the club will keep it.

THE LIBRARY CLUB met Wednesday at noon in the library, and after the members had eaten their lunch, a short business meeting was held.

Mrs. Smith and Marianne Mouser presented a very interesting program about Carl Sandburg. Mrs. Smith told of Mrs. Sandburg's life and work, why Marianne read some of his more famous writings and the things that critics had said about them. The whole program was quite enjoyable and the members returned to their afternoon classes with the feeling that the noon hour had been well spent.

Do You Still Remember the Maine?

By M. E. BYRNE
Written Especially for Central Press and This Newspaper

President McKinley

SATURDAY, Feb. 15, will mark the 60th anniversary of an event which proved of the highest importance to the people of Cuba. However, it is doubtful if the average Cuban this year pays a great deal of attention to the fateful date. He has a much graver matter on his mind—the rebellion raging in the island republic.

It was on the night of Feb. 15, 1898, that a terrific explosion destroyed an American battleship, the U.S.S. Maine, as the war vessel rode at anchor in Havana harbor.

Two months later the United States and Spain were at war—a war which would end with the Cubans gaining their long-sought independence from Spain.

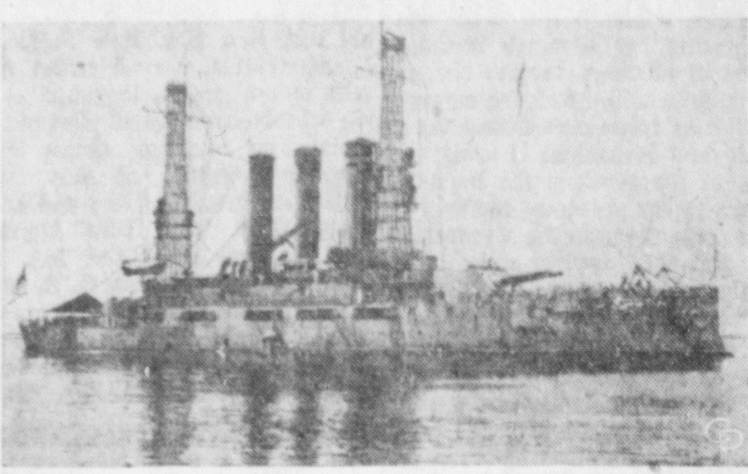

Since early in the Nineteenth Century the islanders had been restive under oppressive Spanish rule. There was even considerable agitation within the United States that this nation annex Cuba, but the advent of the American War Between the States ended such plans.

However, shortly after the Civil war, the Cuban popular rose in revolt against their Spanish overlords.

BETWEEN 1868 and 1878 there were no less than 10 attempts to shake off the oppressive shackles of Spain. These were put down by promises of reforms, but in 1895 rebellion broke out again, more vigorously than ever when Spain reneged on its word.

It was to protect American interests that the United States had dispatched the Maine to Cuban waters at the beginning of the fateful year of 1898.

The blast which wrecked the Maine was a tremendous one, the disaster costing the lives of 266 of those aboard. A wave of indignation swept through the United States where the cause of the Cuban people had always been popular. The American man in the street felt certain that the destruction of the Maine was the result of a Spanish plot. And he demanded immediate action.

The U.S.S. Maine—its fate launched a war.

In the United States a board of inquiry probed into the tragedy and, after a month's deliberation, arrived at the conclusion that the explosion was the work of an exterior submarine mine.

BECAUSE of the great outcry by the American people and the findings of the board of inquiry, the United States government moved swiftly. Congress quickly granted President William McKinley's request for an emergency appropriation of $50 million to establish coastal defenses.

On April 19 the United States government declared war on the Spanish empire and a call went forth for 200,000 volunteers. America's eager youth rushed to the colors. Meanwhile the regular Army establishment was raised from 27,000 men to 50,000.

Uncle Sam went to war demanding before the world that Spain surrender all authority over the island and that the Cubans be granted the right to establish a free and independent government of their own.

Oddly enough, while the Spanish-American war was fought largely for Cuban independence, the first major action of that struggle took place half-way around the world in the Spanish-controlled Philippine islands where, on May 1, U. S. Adm. George Dewey's naval force destroyed a Spanish fleet in Manila bay.

AN AMAZING FACT of this overwhelming American victory was that while Spanish casualties were extremely heavy the United States force suffered none killed and only seven wounded! Manila itself fell to American arms on Aug. 13 and the Philippines were forever lost to Spain.

Meanwhile, Spain had sent a fleet under Admiral Cervera to hold the important Cuban port of Santiago. On July 1, American land forces gained victories at San Juan and El Caney. Winning great distinction here were the Rough Riders, an American force under command of Col. Leonard Wood and Lt. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who within three years would become President of the United States.

Two days later Cervera's fleet, attempting to escape from the port of Santiago, was destroyed in a running fight with American warships.

The war was as good as over. A final blow was the taking of the island of Puerto Rico by Gen. Nelson A. Miles. By the peace treaty, Spain lost all her overseas empire and the Cubans, at long last, were free!

Meat Cost Up; Chick, Chuck Likely Buys

WEEKLY FOOD REVIEW
By The Associated Press

Chicken and chuck roast, two standards when meat prices are high, will be offered as special attractions this weekend by many supermarkets and neighborhood grocery stores.

This combination of circumstances would infer that meat prices are high, which they are, according to supermarket meat experts. One suggested that cold weather interfered with the flow of shipments to market, thus boosting prices still further.

Frying chickens are reported 4 to 8 cents a pound cheaper in some sections this week. Turkeys, another fowl featured when meat becomes dear, also will be a special item in many places.

Veal chops, which have been selling for $1.15 a pound in one national chain's New York metropolitan stores, are 4 to 6 cents a pound higher than last week in some areas. Similarly, pork chops are up 4 to 6 cents a pound and leg of lamb 2 to 4 cents a pound in scattered sections.

Chuck roast is the most frequently featured beef item, although a few stores will try to catch the housewife's eye with what they hope are attractive prices for sirloin and porterhouse steak. One such offering in the New York area pegged steak at 79 cents a pound.

Elsewhere in the stores, the best buys among vegetables continue to be Eastern potatoes, beets, carrots, spinach and California lettuce. The last-named is slightly cheaper this week, produce men say.

You can also get a good buy if you choose Idaho potatoes and onions, sweet potatoes, mushrooms, turnips and greens such as kale, collards and chicory. Peas, many of them imported from Mexico, are lower and rated a fairly good bargain.

Cabbage, growing more popular as an emergency substitute for vegetables hard hit by the Florida freezes, is moderately expensive because of increased demand.

Celery has become more expensive again, while tomatoes remain high.

Eastern apples and Michigan rhubarb are the best fruit buys, although they have plenty of competition from Washington's bounteous crop of red and cold delicious, Rome and winesap apples.

Soap-Eating Nude Nabbed in Grocery

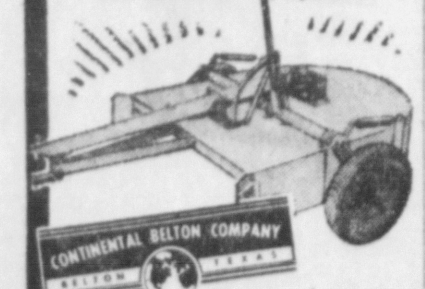

NEW YORK (AP)—A nude young man was an unadvertised special in a Manhattan grocery.

Two dozen women shoppers screamed and shouted as the good looking fellow strolled along the aisles loading a shopping cart.

The store owner called the cops. When they arrived they found the naked shopper chewing on a cake of soap. He fought when they tried to put a butcher's apron on him. Finally subdued and covered, he was taken to Bellevue Hospital for psychiatric examination. He refused to give his name or address.

Spartans Point For Lead in Big Ten Race

Game with Illinois Saturday Could Yield Number One Position

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Michigan State will try to regain outright possession of the Big Ten basketball lead in a televised game Saturday with Illinois.

The contest, beamed regionally starting at 4:30 p. m. EST, will be on MSU's home court, where the Spartans are unbeaten.

Victory would give MSU a 6-3 conference mark, breaking a tie for first place with Indiana. The Hoosiers are idle until Monday.

Illinois, although being the highest scoring Big Ten team with a 79.5 average, shares last place with Wisconsin with a 3-5 standing. The Illini have won only once in six road appearances.

Because of Michigan State's chance of going in front of the closest title race in conference history, the game takes feature status. Rounding out Saturday's schedule are night engagements sending Michigan (4-3) to Ohio State (5-5), Northwestern (4-5) to Minnesota (4-5) and Purdue (5-4) to Wisconsin (3-5).

Iowa, like Indiana, draws a bye. The Illini, who upset Purdue 99-84 Monday, have the second highest scorer in the Big Ten in Don Ohl. He is averaging 22.9 points.

Michigan State, one of the circuit's best rebounding clubs with a 47.3 game average, has two players in the top 10 of scoring, Johnny Green with 17.4 and Larry Hedden with 17.0.

Elgin Baylor appears to have the major college basketball scoring title in the bag, but even with his 34.4-points-a-game average he's a long way from setting records.

The 6-6 junior scored 47 points for Seattle Thursday night in a 99-69 victory over Regis of Denver. That makes 654 points in 19 games.

Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati has scored 633 points in 19 games for a 33.3 average. It looks close, but Oscar would need 54 points in his next game (against stingy Oklahoma State Saturday just to tie).

Baylor is well back of the all-time one-season average record of 41.7 set by All America Frank Selvy at Furman in 29 games in the 1953-54 season.

Only one of the top 10 clubs played Thursday night, and Maryland, ranked No. 9, breezed past Clemson for a 72-54 decision in the Atlantic Coast Conference. North Carolina, rated 11th, needed a pair of field goals from Bob Cunningham and Tommy Kearns to come from behind in the last 34 seconds and defeat Wake Forest 60-57 in another ACC game.

Denver hung Don Campbell on Wyoming's high-scoring Tony Windis midway in the first half and barreled from behind for a 77-60 victory that dumped the Cowboys out of a first-place Skyline Conference tie with Idaho Brigham Young.

Boo Ellis scored 29, grabbed 12 rebounds and collected four assists for Niagara in a 76-63 victory over Seton Hall. St. John's of Brooklyn built a 15-point lead in the first half and rapped Manhattan 77-66 in the other half of the New York Madison Square Garden double-header.

Marr Sets Pace In Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Texan Dave Marr, one of the brightest youngsters coming up in golf, led the $15,000 Texas Open by a whopping six strokes going into the second round today.

He showed they had been looking in the wrong place for the best bad weather player. He had an 8-under-par 63 Thursday over the soggy 6,490-yard course.

Only 15 of a field of 150 players were able to better par.

Only four players could better 70. They were Tony Holguin, Middlethian, Ill., former Texas Open champion; Dave Ragan, of Orlando, Fla.; Bill Johnston, Provo, Utah; and Stan Leonard, Vancouver. Each shot a 69.

Fish and Game Assn. Adds 40 New Members

The "booster night" of the Fayette County Fish and Game Assn. was all that the officers and members had hoped for—and more.

It was held in the Dayton Power & Light Co. auditorium Thursday night because the location was considered more convenient than the lodge near Buena Vista. And, it's a good thing it was, because 258 sportsmen of field and stream accepted the invitation to be guests of the association.

The purpose of the "booster night" was three-fold: (1) to have a good time; (2) let other sportsmen know what the association here does and has to offer its members and (3) to sign up new members.

At the conclusion of the affair,

Two close Ohio Conference basketball games highlighted the four-game Ohio cage card Thursday night.

Otterbein had its hands full in edging Denison 84-82 and Wooster came from behind to nip Muskingum 70-65.

Otterbein had to withstand a hectic second half to claim its sixth win in 16 games, all in the conference. The lead changed hands 12 times and was tied on five occasions before the Cardinals took the lead for good with 8:20 remaining.

Dick Trimmer tallied 29 points for Denison, now 3-6 in the loop and 7-7 over all, to lead all scorers. Wooster trailed all the way until it got a late second half rally started. The Scots took the lead with four minutes left and hung on to post their ninth win in 13 games. They are 4-3 in the conference. Muskingum is 6-4.

Wilmingon, undefeated until last week, won its 14th game in 16 starts in the last 13 seconds, nipping Central State 63-63. The Raiders have almost an opposite record of 2-16.

Charley Cox got the winning field goal for the Quakers after both teams struggled to keep the ball for one final shot.

The only other game was at Bethany, W. Va., where the host Bison swamped Western Reserve 70-47. Reserve is now 4-9.

Basketball Tourney

bull club Thursday, led scoring with nine baskets and a foul shot for 19 points. He had the privilege of sinking the tying basket at the end of the regular game and the winning basket in the overtime.

Wayne jumped off to what looked like a fluke lead early in the game, as each team opened the tourney with cautious, low-scoring technique.

But as the first period wore on, it became apparent that Wayne's cautious approach might be paying off. Taking only the good shots and hanging onto the ball while they had it, the Anthony ended the half with a 19-17 lead.

In the third period, Wayne's attack fell apart. Changing their tactics slightly, the Bulldogs caught up with the leaders and then soared into a 31-25 lead.

Early in the fourth period, the dogged Wayne hoopers started hustling again all the while sticking to the cautious, precision approach they had used all evening.

It looked like it was paying off, but glum Wayne fans began to feel the resurgence had started too late. Bloomington seemed to have the ball game sewed up, and when they started to freeze on a 39-37 lead, their victory seemed secure.

But that wasn't the end at all. An untimely foul brought the ball to Wayne's end of the court, and a tussle under the hoop set Overly and Bloomington's Don Hidy up for a jump ball.

The players jumped. Overly got the tip and shot it back to the waiting Osborne, out near center court.

With the frenzy of the thronging fans on his neck, Osborne never lost his caution. He looked around to make sure of his course and—almost before the buzzer sounded—calmly let go a set shot that swished through the hoop without touching the rim.

Tied, 39-39, the game went into overtime, where Wayne moved ahead, the Bloomington, and then, finally, Wayne again on another Osborne set. Three foul shots by Overly and a basket by Garringer lengthened the score.

Jeff Given Scare But Comes Through

Crackling like a two dollar pistol as they came on the floor, Madison Mills' Warriors put a man-sized fright into Jeff's Tigers during the first five minutes of the second varsity game. When the Warriors ran up a 16-6 lead, it began to look like a night for upsets.

But it wasn't. The temporary heat wave passed, and Jeff surged back for a predicted, although close, 69 to 57, victory.

The Tigers didn't have it as easy as they did during the games in the regular season, when their margin over the Warriors was almost embarrassing. It wasn't until the last five minutes that they turned the contest into a runaway.

But hard work, hustle, good aim and sufficient defense paid off in the long run. Steadily and skillfully, the Tigers carved out a highly respectable performance.

Jim Smith, hitting eight field goals and two foul shots, was high scorer for the Tigers with 18 points. Three other Tigers—Manford Sizemore, Jeff Smith and Jeff Smith.

MacKay Sees U. S. Hope in Tennis Test

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—Towerling Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, without a major tournament trophy to his credit, is embarking on a tennis tour which could end with the Davis Cup returning to America.

Americans and Australians alike believe he is the young blood of the United States has been awaiting in its quest to regain the Davis Cup from Australia. MacKay was the fifth-ranked singles player in last year's U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn. ratings.

The National Collegiate Singles champion just returned from an Australian junket. His play, especially in the 1957 Davis Cup challenge round, evoked effusive praise from such eminent old Cup heroes as Pancho Gonzales and Australian Denny Pails.

MacKay believes his sojourn downunder rounded out his booming game which sometimes has been erratic.

MacKay goes to Buffalo, N. Y., this weekend for the Queen City Invitational. It was in Buffalo he first shot into the national spotlight last year by upsetting Vic Seixas and Dick Savitt. Next week he appears in the National Indoor Championships at New York. Then he hits the tournament trail.

Baseball Managers Speak

Bragan Optimistic About '58 Indians

By BOBBY BRAGAN

Cleveland Indians Manager

FT. WORTH, Tex. (AP)—As the new manager of the Cleveland Indians I have a great challenge, bigger than when I was with Pittsburgh. One thing in my favor, though, I will have better players this time.

The team, as I see it, will be built around two of the most exciting players in baseball today—Herb Score and Minnie Miñoso. Score is the ace of my staff—the ace of any staff. His vision should be normal when spring training opens. I don't think his tragic accident of 1957—when he was hit in the face by a line drive—will bother him. He is one of the most courageous kids I have ever had the pleasure of knowing. I hope he will have a big year.

We won't have Early Wynn, but some of our newcomers might surprise. Wynn's place could be taken by Cal Melish, Hank more who hit 17, Alva Hanners who scored 13, and Larry Burson who connected for 11 points—shared the double figures. A total of seven—all but one of those who played—had a hand the scoring.

Although they took only 17 foul shots, Jeff scored on 11 of them, and thus turned in a highly respectable performance there. Madison Mills scored on 13 out of 23.

It was on the foul line that Jeff's real power was shown, though, as they hit 29 field goals, as contrasted to the Warrior's 22.

Bloomington Wins Junior Game, 40-26

Bloomington's junior high Bulldogs, as consistently hot a team as there is in the county, showed 'em all how it's done in the first game Thursday evening, trouncing the Wayne juniors, 40-26.

Although the opposition played a respectable game, the Pups never gave them a chance for glory. They held them to two points in the first period, three in the second, and only 9 and 12 in the third and fourth.

Five of the 10 boys seeing action scored for Bloomington. Lonnie Ayers led scoring with 16 points.

Aguirre, the lefthander, or by Jim Grant or Dick Brodowski. The last two were with San Diego last year and are currently doing well in the winter league.

Minoso can help me a lot and also be a drawing card. He is one of the best defensive players in the league and one of the top run producers. He played in 153 games last year and is the type who plays despite aches and pains. This fact is important. He is a smart and colorful player. I know him well as a rival in the four years I've managed in Cuba in the winter. He will be the sparkplug of the Indians.

Our objectives are to win the pennant and make the Indians a good drawing card. Winning the pennant means beating the Yankees. Well, they can be beaten.

Our biggest problem is the rebuilding of our infield. I know we need a second baseman. It is possible that one of the younger players might surprise, but I sure could use a guy like Bobby Richardson of the Yankees.

Vic Wertz, our best hitter, is solid at first base. We recently purchased Mickey Vernon from Boston and I am certain he can still do a good job around first base if given the proper rest. Chico Carrasquel has to do better at shortstop, but he's still young enough and with fine ability. Third base is wide open.

We have lots of "ifs" but I'm optimistic. I can't see the Indians as a sixth place club.

Business Upswing Expected Next June

CLEVELAND (AP)—The president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Philip M. Talbot, predicted Thursday night that business will take an upward swing in June.
The 62-year-old Washington, D.
C., department store head said the economy's present adjustment period does not compare with the 1930s when "we had real trouble."
Unemployment compensation, record - high savings and farm price supports were factors he listed as offsetting the drop.
